

Nomura Strengthens Global Markets Americas Sales with Senior Hires

New York, May 22, 2013 — Nomura, Asia's global investment bank, today announced the appointment of Tom Haskins as a Managing Director and Head of Foreign Exchange Sales Americas, and Eric Miller as a Managing Director and Head of Interest Rates Sales Americas.

"The Americas represents a significant opportunity for Nomura's Global Markets franchise, and we are committed to investing in our strategic businesses where we can offer real value and make a difference for our clients," says Charlie Spero, Head of Global Markets Americas.

"As we continue to increase our market share in an intensely competitive environment, it is imperative that we have professionals such as Tom and Eric to focus on our distribution network and direct our efforts to better serve our client franchise," says Henson Orser, Head of Global Markets Sales Americas.

Haskins joins Nomura following an 11 year career at Morgan Stanley where he was most recently Head of FX/EM Sales Americas.

Miller joins Nomura following a 12 year career at Credit Suisse where he most recently was Co-Head of USD Rates Sales and USD Swaps Product Manager.

Nomura's Global Markets franchise in the Americas is committed to building on its proven track record as a provider of strategic solutions to individual, institutional, corporate and government clients. It is committed to increasing the depth of its existing businesses while selectively broadening the platform into new markets.
