

Nomura Singapore Limited Appoints Gan Chee Yen to its Board

Singapore, July 13, 2021— Nomura Singapore Limited today announced that it has appointed Gan Chee Yen as a Non-Executive Director.

Michael Lim, Chairman of the Nomura Singapore board, said: “We are delighted to welcome Chee Yen to the board. His unique insights and expertise from his hugely successful and diversified career spanning over three decades will be invaluable to the board.”

“Chee Yen’s depth of experience in accounting, finance and investment management, as well as his managerial and supervisory roles will add greatly to decision-making and corporate governance at our Singapore boardroom,” added Kelvin Ho, CEO of Nomura Singapore.

From 2011 to 2019, Mr. Gan was Chief Executive Officer of Fullerton Financial Holdings, which invests in and operates financial institutions in emerging markets. Fullerton Financial is a unit of Singapore’s global investment company, Temasek, where he worked in multiple positions from 2003 to 2011. His various roles there were as Senior Managing Director, Co-Chief Investment Officer, Chief Financial Officer and Head of China.

“I am honored and excited to join the Nomura Singapore board of directors. Nomura has an outstanding client franchise across its business divisions, underpinned by its commitment of Connecting Markets East & West. I look forward to working with the senior management team and the other directors toward the firm’s continued success in Asia and beyond,” said Mr. Gan.

Mr. Gan also sits on the board of Singapore-based companies, Heliconia Capital Management, Surbana Jurong, and Pacific International Lines.
